The World We Don't Know!

The project "The World We Don't Know" will bring together students from different European countries to explore cultural, environmental, and social aspects that often go unnoticed in everyday life. Through online collaboration, students will investigate topics such as cultural traditions, the use of scales and maps, digital safety (e-safety), and environmental issues, focusing on water pollution and possible solutions to the environmental challenges faced in their respective countries. They will engage in various activities, including online meetings for participation in digital activities, creating a virtual gallery, producing e-books with work from students in different countries, and more. The project encourages knowledge exchange, promotes critical thinking, and strengthens intercultural understanding, while also aiming to raise students' awareness of global and local issues.
